Fundamental Duties (Article 51A)

Source: Constitution of India (public document, legislative.gov.in / India Code)

This document gives a short overview of Fundamental Duties (Article 51A).

Fundamental Duties were added to the Constitution by the 42nd Amendment in 1976 on the recommendation of the Swaran Singh Committee. Fundamental Duties are listed in Article 51A, which is placed in Part IVA of the Constitution. There were originally ten Fundamental Duties.

The 86th Amendment of 2002 added an eleventh duty requiring parents to provide education opportunities to children aged 6 to 14. Citizens have a duty to abide by the Constitution and respect the National Flag and National Anthem. Citizens must also protect and improve the natural environment, including forests, lakes, rivers and wildlife.

Fundamental Duties are not directly enforceable by courts and carry no direct penalty. The concept of Fundamental Duties was inspired by the Constitution of the former Soviet Union.

Note: This is a simplified educational summary written in our own words from public information. It is not legal, financial or medical advice. Verify details with the official source before relying on them.