This document gives a short overview of Sukanya Samriddhi Yojana.

Sukanya Samriddhi Yojana is a small savings scheme for the girl child that was launched on 22 January 2015. An account can be opened for a girl who is below 10 years of age. Only a parent or legal guardian can open the account in the girl's name.

The minimum deposit is 250 rupees and the maximum is 1.5 lakh rupees in a financial year. Deposits can be made for 15 years from the date of opening the account. The account matures 21 years after the date of opening.

Up to 50 percent of the balance can be withdrawn after the girl turns 18 for higher education or marriage. The interest rate is set by the government every quarter, and deposits qualify for deduction under Section 80C of the Income Tax Act.
